Something must soon be vernor, stated that the Singapore done. authorities ought not to have the right We may remark on the more effectual to publicly flog any offender. Upon treatment of old offenders in a future Packet with Late Fee of 10 cents extra | the second reading of the Bill, it was issue. moved as an amendment that the Bill be read a second time that day six months. A lively discussion followed, in which many of the members took part, the Attorney-General being the only member who had a word to say in beyond, vid Naples; to Saigon, Straits favour of the abolition of public flog-Settlements, Batavia, Burmah, Ceylon, ging. Mr Rend, who proposed the the Australasian Colonies, Pondichery, amendment, characterised the interference of the Secretary of State as un- longed. called for and injurious because the bill proposed to take away the only deterrent punishment calculated to check disturbances. Instead of being sent to gaol, prisoners were flogged,instead of getting food, lodging, clothing, and little work, if they got what they did not like (say a dozen), few ever came back for a second dose. The upshot of the discussion was, that the Bill was rejected on its second reading by 18 to 3,-the minority being compused of the Acting Governor, the Acting Colonial Secretary, and the Attorney-General. As the Legislative Council of the Straits is composed of ten official and seven unofficial members. we have the unusual picture of a Governor, his Colonial Secretary, and his the Rebel chief 1] Attorney General, endeavouring (apparently against their personal convictions) to force a measure on the Council; while a majority even of the official members decline to have anything to do with it. The Chief Justice encournged this independence of Downing Street influence by remarking that it would show no disrespect to the Secretary of State to vote against the Bill. to see the matter discussed. Be this 11.30 A.M. - When the Post Office closes as it may, it is gratifying to find that so much latitude is now being permitted in the Councils of Crown Colonies. Singapore may be said to be St. Stephen's Church, (all Services in Chigoing through the same ordeal as Hongkong had to undergo some years since, -only her Acting Governor and officials generally object to the humanitarians having it all their own way, while Sir John Pope Hennessy was all for mercy and a cheap reputation. What the upshot of this vote in the Straits Council may be, it is hard to say,

In the meantime, as there is something wrong somewhere about our system of dealing with criminals in Hongkong, it may be advisable to ask what can be bne in the whipping depart- Evensong :- Psalm, Goss; Magnificat & ment here. Offences which can be punished by flogging in England can be so dealt with, although the whipping must be administered within the prison walls. and the Attorney General are continually engaged 'shuttlecocking' prisoners between the Magistracy and the Supreme Court until, at a certain point, the Magistrate closes up the controversy by ordering the prisoner to go and join his thieving friends again. Whatever may be the merits of these silly exhibit tions of so-called justice, they neither add to the dignity of the administration nor act as a deterrent on the dishonest classes. Indeed, the great aim and object of all English officials here should be to convict and punish everywrongdoor in the straightest, readiest, and most effectual manner, so that property and life might be rendered as safe as good government can make them. A wise Magistrate, if he were to act upon a rule of this kind, instead of stickling over trifles, would be so guided as to make the law 'a terror to evildoers,' instead of a laughing-stock. A Public Prosecutor (if we only had one) would bend all his energies towards making the administration of the law a wholesome, deterring force. A Judge would, whenever violence was displayed, administer the lash. The laws of Hongkong, we admit, have gradually been pared down to a very fine point, so that it is a difficult matter to get the hardened criminal to respect them. But this condition of things ought to furnish the most powerful reason why the laws which remain should be need with promptitude and firmness against during and confirmed offenders. Cases have lately been discharged by Mr Wodehouse which certainly ought to all appearance to have been otherwise disposed of. Others have been disposed of which might with advantage have been sent to the Supreme Court. But, as we have binted, things are out of gear, and the thieves are the only class who benefit thereby. It is not for us to suggest specific remedies for this state of things; but consequences even more serious than those which have yet shown themselves are sure to follow a lengthened persistence in the purposeless and foolish game which is now being played. Murderers and violent robbers have not been getting their deserts, and the result is that murders and robberies with violence are on the increase. It is the duty of the Executive to look into this. An interesting discussion has taken If the existing laws were but carefully place in the Legislauve Council of the and forcibly applied, and the Police, Straits Settlements on the vexed ques- the Magistrates, the Crown Solicitor, Per Sumatra, at 5 p.m., on Saturday, tion of public flogging as a deterrent of the Attorney General, and the Judges crime. A yew months since a Chinese tailor carrying on business in Square Street was obliged to seek the protection of the Police Magistrate against the machinations and violence of a number of the members of the tailors guild in this Colony. On account of the intimidation and other means used by the guild the tailor was obliged to discharge all his workman. One or more of the members of the guild who had gone so far as to use any pur oar for the purpose of single use violence were fined in small amounts, and there the matter ended for the time, Since then it appears the guild have been as active as ever in their persecution of the independent tailor. At China New Year, he engaged a number of men from Canton and Fatalian to work in his shop, men who did not belong to the Hongkong guild, and wer since he has been subjected to further

Last evening the matter was carried further than mere threats, the brother of the unfortunate tailor being set upon by the crowd of the union men as he left the shop, and rather severely wounded by one of the miscreants with a knife before he could regain the shelter of the shop. The man who handled the knife and three others believed to be concerned in the disturbance were brought up this morning before Mr Wodehouse, when the case was remanded for further evidence.

Complainant's statement was to the effect that he was a tailor carrying on business at 15 Square Street. A tailors' guild existed in the Colony to which he and several of his employees did not belong as it did not suit his business. In consequence of refusal to join the guild he had had a great deal of trouble last year and he had had one man arrested and fined. After the case was finished he had dismissed all his employees to prevent further trouble and had engaged ten men from Canton, Fatshan &o, who were not required by the rules to join the guild. On the 3rd inst., about dusk, over thirty tailors who were members of the guild came and stood round his shop, and called out that 'if you do not join the guild, we will atab you to death. THE CHINA SHIPPERS' MUTUAL STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY (LIMITED).

The third annual ordinary general meeting of the shareholders of the China Shippers' Mutual Steam Navigation Company was held at the Cannon-street Hotel, London on the 27th April, Mr Albert Deacon, the Chairman, presiding. The Chairman said :- Gentlemen .- When last we had the pleasure of meeting you here it devolved upon me to place before you an account of the progress we had made thus far, and I would now invite you to accompany me through a short summary of our history from that time down to the point indicated by the report and accounts now in your hand. That done: I shall endeavour to make a cautious forecast of our near future, so far, at all events, as it is wise to do so in a world where the many chances stand between a 'good sowing and a good harvest.'- Do not mistake me, however. We cannot, indeed, command success; but I hold that all solid, serious ondeavour, courageously undertaken, guided by experience, and honestly, heartily, and industriously pursued, sooner or later brings its reward; nor is there a single feature in the affairs I now propose to bring under your notice which leads me to doubt the truth of this assertion, or fails to apply to the onterprise we have in hand .-You may remember, gentlemen, that when I last addressed you I referred to the depression of the times through which we were then passing, and now, I lament to say, it is impossible to report any improve ment in trade generally, while the shipping interests at this moment are, if possible even more depressed than at the same time last year.-We must candidly admit we have experienced many difficulties, and many disappointments, but, thanks to the fundamental soundness of our undertaking, and the hearty co-operation of our friends, these difficulties have never exceeded our ability to deal with, and we shall probably be the better sailors in the end for having served our apprenticeship in somewhat stormy times and troubled waters. -At this date date last year we were scarcely prepared to find that £3 per ton would, with one exception, prove the hightest rate for first stoumers from Hankow at the opening of the tea season. Yet this was the Copack's rate; and, although after her departure freights still further declined, we are free to confess that the result of this first voyage was, to say the least, disappointment. The Ningchow, loaded at Foochow, met with somewhat better fortune, for although her freight fell far below what is understood to be a good one, yet it was second to that of no other steamer and in the result was remunerative and satisfactory. Both vessels have continued to find almost uninterrupted employment in the trade, and to do their work well. Down to the 31st December last they had run a distance of 89,839 miles, and earned a gross freight of upwards of £67,000 almost without an accident. I say almost without accident, but as a matter of fact the Ningchow was caught in the disastrous typhoon of November last in the China Seas, which will be fresh in the memory of many present, and through which she passed with so much credit, with little more than the loss of a couple of boats and some slight injury to her cargo. We hear this morning of her arrival at Hongkong, carrying the most remunerative autward freight we have yet secured. The Ocpack has been scarcely less fortunate, as during the time which must necessarily clapse between her arrival in China and the opening of the tea season she has succeeded in obtaining full and remunerative coast employment. It is our intention that, as last year, one vesse shall take the berth at Hankow, and one at Foothow, at the opening of the tea season, nor have we any reason to doubt that both will secure full cargoes, and have early tespatch at the highest current rates of freight. Our report has apprised you that ! contracts have been entered into for the acquisition of two new steamers. One, the Ching-We, has been built by Messra Raylton Dixon, and Co., of Middlesbre', point of view. Why, then, should we be foot and branch, out of the system. so heavily handicapped, or rather why should we be handicapped at all I It is, however, with no small satisfaction that we are at last able to report some concessions on the part of several of these companies; yet much is still required, and we can consider nothing short of the acceptance of our risks at the lowest premiums ruling as completely satisfactory. (Hear, hear.) Put us, we say, upon the same terms as the Glen and Ocean lines, whose yessels are no better built, commanded, or found. If our business proves less profitable than theirs, then by all means, increase your rates accordingly.-And now do me the favour to turn to the accounts for a moment. Mr Gilfillan thought the botter course would be to pass a vote of thanks to the chairman and board for their valuable services generally including the abandonment of their fees. He begged to move that such a vote be passed.

This having been seconded and agreed to. Mr Reid, in reply, said that in the absence of a more substantial recognition such a vote was most acceptable. He hoped the next balance sheet would admit some remuneration being given to board, and that while paying as good a dividend they would able to return to the contributors some bonus for the business they brought. He would remind the shareholders that this was a mutual company and that the board were dependent to great extent upon the aupport of the shareholders and he hoped that each one would go away fally impressed with the lesirability of bringing business or inducing riends to support the company. By so doing they would maintain and improve their position in the great shipping trade with PARCELS.—The public is reminded that there is no such thing as Parcel Post to Europe, &c. Missed or Delayed Correspondence.

When correspondence has been missent or delayed (both of which are liable to happen occasionally) all that the addresses need do is to note on the cover, Sent to or Received at 7 p.m., or as the case may be, and forward it, without any other writing whatever, to the Postmaster General. This should be acted on the first time cause of complaint occurs; it is a mistake to let such matters pass for fear of giving trouble, a course which generally gives more trouble in the end.
